

Why couldn't the Cobb sheriff find Sam Olens?

Let's help the Cobb Sheriff find Sam "Waldo" Olens!

MISSING!

Was KSU President Sam Olens fulfilling a quid pro quo when he gave in to pressure from Cobb Sheriff Neil Warren to stop the KSU cheerleaders from kneeling, and then lied about it?

---

Was Olens appointed as president of KSU to reward him for his efforts to derail the RICO lawsuits against the Board of Regents when he was the Georgia Attorney General?

When the Cobb Sheriff's Office was paid to have civil service papers served upon Sam Olens in a lawsuit, the papers were returned unserved by the Cobb County Sheriff with a notation that Kennesaw State University President Sam Olens could not be found after a diligent search at the KSU president's office.

In the civil case filed in Fulton County Superior Court, 2017CV289247, the papers were sent back to the plaintiff's lawyer unserved on August 4, 2017. The Sheriff's Entry of Service Form states "Diligent search made and defendant: Multiple day and night attempts -- subj not in". So it seems that the sheriff who can't find Olens anywhere in Cobb County to serve him with papers, after repeated attempts, can get him on his private cell phone any time he likes.

Did you know that KSU students, faculty and alumni filed for an injunction to stop Sam Olens from being appointed president of KSU on October 31, 2016? Did you know there has been a motion to set aside for fraud pending in that action since last November?

That motion includes documentation from state records that AG Olens obstructed a criminal investigation into the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia (the opposite of what his job as AG was) before they gave him a better paying job at close to $600,000 a year?

You can read the attached motions and decide for yourself if Olens is fit to be president of Kennesaw State University.
